MEMORANDUM FOR [redacted]

Subject: Interview with CIG of returning Military and Naval Missions' Personnel

1. It is felt that some benefit could be derived by CIG from an interview with members of Military and Naval missions to foreign countries upon their return to the United States.

This procedure is now being successfully carried out in the case of officials of other government departments and it is considered desirable that the military and naval mission personnel be included in that category.

2. It is realized that certain restrictions are contained in the contract for these missions in regard to divulging of information on the country to which they are ordered. However, it is not felt that an interview upon their return would in any way jeopardize the intent of their contract and it would be of value to our government.

3. It is probable that in some instances a returning individual would have little or no information of intelligence value. This fact could undoubtedly be established when these officers report to their Washington office who could then determine whether or not to direct them to CIG.

4. It is therefore requested that when appropriate, subject personnel be directed to contact the Chief of the Presentation Division, CIG (Phone [redacted] who will make the necessary arrangements for the interview and will notify any other service intelligence agency who indicate that they would be interested.
